

Big Idea: We are created and called to offer our whole life in unceasing worship of God.

I. Created:

II. Called:

III. To offer our whole life as a living sacrifice to God.

III. This transformation comes through the renewing of our heart and mind.

Worship is at once about who we are, about who or what our god is and about how we choose to live. It is about something that is quite simple but wrapped in mystery. It is about God himself, who has but one face and whose face has been clearly shown in the person and work of his only begotten Son. It is about a world in which worship takes on a thousand faces. It is also about Satan, dressed as an angel of light, disarmingly attractive yet inherently false, whose faces are cleverly multiplied and whose one desire is to undo what has already been done from the eternities.
